Dear Daddy,

When I told you last night I wanted to marry Adam, you said an 18-year-old girl was too young to get married. You also said Adam and I didn't understand each other well because we only dated 100 days. But I don't think so. I'm old enough to know Adam loves me, and we are on the same page when it comes to starting a family of our own.

It's true that Adam used to smoke a lot. However, he has given up smoking for me because I hate the smell. He also had his hair cut for me because I don't like men with long hair. Isn't it super great to marry a man like him?

Debra

Dear Debra,

Maybe 100 days is long enough for you to know Adam as a friend, but I don't think it's long enough to get married to him. You are still very young, and you need more time to know him better. Because of you, Adam made some changes. This shows he cares about you, and you are touched by his changes. However, both of you should know that love doesn't really mean one has to change or lose oneself.

You are my daughter, and I love you so much. I never thought my little girl would leave me that early. But your life belongs to you, and so does the final decision. I hope you can think twice and deal with this carefully. If you do believe you are ready for a different new life, I, who am your father, will wish you all the best.

Dad

( ) 43. What can we learn about Debra's father?
(A) He will respect Debra's decision.
(B) He will not allow Debra to marry Adam.
(C) He knows Adam so well that he likes him.
(D) He agrees love means changing for others.
( ) 44. What is true according to these two letters?
(A) Adam likes girls with short hair.
(B) Debra's father doesn't like Adam at all.
(C) Both Adam and Debra are 18 years of age.
(D) Debra thinks she is already ready for a new life.

(45~46)

I read on the Internet that more and more people choose to raise dogs or cats as pets, not kids. Do you know why? It is said that having pets goes hand in hand with your mood and health. What's more, no matter how lonely you feel, your pet is always there for you. In case a terrible accident happens to you, like losing your parents in an earthquake, your pet will help you see through the difficult time. Besides, you can also get exercise when taking care of it. This way, you may not only get a sense of security but also live longer.

Do you know your choice of pets has something to do with your personality? Many interesting studies point out pet owners who own fish are the happiest, and those who own cats are people who you can trust the most. Rabbit owners are usually warm and open to new experiences. Bird owners are polite and care a lot about others. Dog owners understand themselves better and feel down less often. They are the most outgoing and the easiest to get along with.

If you have never had a pet, you can test the water by watching videos about cute animals online before you act on your pet plan. You'll get to be in a good mood in less than one minute. It's amazing, isn't it?

( ) 45. Sharon smiles a lot and makes friends easily. She knows herself very well and wishes to be a vet. What kind of pet does she perhaps have?
(A) A dog. (B) A cat. (C) A fish. (D) A bird.

( ) 46. What is NOT true?
(A) With a pet, one may live longer.
(B) Owning pets tells others a lot about the owner.
(C) Taking care of a pet can help the owner exercise.
(D) Watching movies about cute animals has nothing to do with having good health.

(47~48)

Who shapes the person you are the most? Parents or other family members may be at the top of the list for many people. But a close second place is very possible to go to a teacher. Some of the successful people in the world have a teacher in their younger days to thank for their success.

Can you imagine life without the personal computer? Well, without two of Bill Gates's high school teachers, that could be our world today. Gates's math teacher, Fred Wright, asked him to push himself just a little bit harder. Maybe that's why the founder of Microsoft sometimes slept under his desk in the office instead of going home to relax after work. And his drama teacher, Anne Stephens, helped him look for love of the spotlight in the school play. Gates thanked his teachers, saying, “There's no way there would be a Microsoft without them doing what they did.” Antwone Fisher, a best-selling writer, grew up in foster homes, and didn't have any adults that he could trust. But an elementary school teacher, Mrs. Profitt, was the first adult he ever trusted. “She spoke to all of us the same way – with respect. No one spoke to me that way before. I think that being with her for three years made all the difference.”

So, if you have a teacher, you're really very lucky. One day, maybe you'll look back at your life, your successes, the dreams you've made come true or the difficult things you've survived. The chances are high that you'll find a teacher's words have helped you achieve these things. Perhaps you already know who that teacher will be. Why not say thank you today or on Teacher’s Day? You really have to keep this in mind: God helps those who are thankful.

( ) 47. Who may shape the person you are the least?
(A) Your parents. (B) Your neighbors.
(C) Your teachers. (D) Your Grandparents.

( ) 48. According to the reading, which is true?
(A) Gates's math teacher asked him to sleep under the desk in class.
(B) We can count on the personal computer of Microsoft to make a play.
(C) Antwone Fisher didn’t trust any adults until he met his teacher, Anne Stephens.
(D) We should be thankful to our teachers for what they have done to make us what we are.

(49~50)

(Ms. Wu is talking about career plans with her students.)
Ms. Wu: Twenty years ago, it was hard to believe people can make a video call with their family or friends. With the help of technology, everything seems to be possible. What worries me the most is in the next twenty years, some jobs may be gone because of technology. For example, self-driving cars are becoming more and more popular, so drivers may not be needed anymore. When that happens… Olivia, do you have a question?
Olivia: Yes, Ms. Wu. My father works as a taxi driver to raise all my family. He’s really worried about losing his job. What can he do?
Ms. Wu: Good question. Although we may not need drivers in the future, your father can still find a way out. By the way, does your father enjoy taking a trip?
Olivia: Of course. Who doesn’t?
Ms. Wu: Then he can take courses of tour guide training for taxi drivers. Does he speak a second language?
Olivia: Yes, he can speak a little English and Japanese.
Ms. Wu: Great. The more languages he can speak, the more chances he will have to get more customers. Even though some jobs are about to disappear, we can still find other ways to make a living.

📖 tour guide 導遊　customer 顧客　disappear 消失
