各位老師，各位同學，大家午安，我是 806 林榆芸，我是今天的英文小達人，今天，我要為大家播報的內容，是:Lucky to be Alive

On May 13th, a 29-year-old hiker surnamed Lee, set off on a solo cross-island hike. On May 20th, he fell and injured himself. Mr. Lee found that he was unable to walk and was in an area with no cell phone reception. When the Plum Rains began, the water levels began to rise around him. Mr. Lee crawled to the top of the 2,200 meter ridge to escape drowning. On June 14th, Mr. Lee reached the top of the ridge and discovered he had a cell phone signal once more. He called rescue services and told them about his situation. A helicopter could not fly out because of the bad weather, so a rescue party was sent out.

Thankfully, the rescue party was able to reach Mr. Lee 6 days after they had set out. The hiker was in poor condition, but conscious. He had been without food for 8 days and had two broken legs! Since the weather had been clear for a few days, the helicopter was able to fly and take Mr. Lee to the hospital. After 37 days stuck in the mountains, he is very lucky to be alive!

Thanks for your listening. See you next time!
